$48,500 ALREADY GIVEN TO HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

JUDGE BELL, CAPTAIN WOODWARD AND H. B. POWELL TELL PEOPLE AT MASS MEETING OF DRIVE

SOLICITATION BEGINS MONDAY

We're off (we say we, meaning you and I and everybody else who is going to participate in the Hospital Campaign)—and with a running jump.

The formal opening of the campaign so far as soliciting is concerned is not until Monday but the campaign is meeting with such favor among those who have the community needs at heart that when Monday rolls around at least twenty five per cent of the amount needed ($200,000) will be subscribed.

Loud and prolonged applause greeted the announcement made at the mass meeting last night that a grand total of $48,500 had already been subscribed. The meeting was well attended, the number attending being considerably larger than the directors of the campaign had hoped for.

Judge Bell made the opening address and urged those present to "get to work," not as a sentimental proposition but rather a good business proposition. His talk was in the nature of a sincere plea for individual action on the part of every man and woman in the county at least in accepting the responsibilities of community citizenship.

He was followed by Captain A. H. Woodward who told of the early history of the hospital, the vision and feeling of moral responsibility that brought the institution into being, the charity of the directors who time after time had made up deficits, the work of the ladies auxiliaries who labor unceasingly to improve the furnishings and equipment. He outlined the hospital proposition from every angle; sentimental, economical, financial and from the standpoint of public health.

H. B. Hartswick, Esq., then took the platform and made the announcement which all but brought the audience to their feet. Here is what it was:

Hospital Subscriptions to Date

Mr. A. W. Lee and members of household	$20,000
Mr. Rembrandt Peale	5,000
Four members of hospital staff	4,500
Eleven members of board of directors	9,150
Five private subscriptions totaling	6,850

Grand Total

The exceptional generosity of A. W. Lee and his family was the subject of the opening remarks made by H. B. Powell. He referred to the many and varied charities of Mr. Lee in connection with the hospital and other community undertakings and remarked that this was not the first time that this good citizen had come to the rescue of the hospital and expresses his hopes, liberal contribution of Mr. Peale, it being all the more remarkable because Mr. Peale, though having business interests in the county is not a resident of the county.

Mr. Powell told his hearers many things that have not been public knowledge; how, although the hospital is overcrowded nobody in need of medical or surgical attention is turned away; of the wonderful generosity of the physicians and surgeons in attending to the needs of the patients without thought of pecuniary reward; of the hundreds upon hundreds of pure charity cases in the wards; people unable to pay, yet attended with the same kindly, sympathetic care given to those able to have private rooms and pay for all they receive; how, at the present time, the expenses of the hospital are at least $1,000 a month over the income; how start it cannot help but succeed. Why time after time the board of directors is there who will put a stone in it, have made up deficits without going to path?

The people for help. The entire address of Mr. Powell was complete with information which should and would set at rest all misunderstanding as to the true condition of affairs at the hospital. It is to be regretted that a stenographic record of his remarks is not available for general publication throughout the county.

An orchestra under the leadership of Professor Schaffer gave fine music with the same kindly, sympathetic campaign quartette made a decided hit.

The campaign begins in earnest on Monday. With such a wonderful $1,000 a month over the income; how start it cannot help but succeed. Why time after time the board of directors is there who will put a stone in it, have made up deficits without going to path?

JEWELRY SALESMAN YEGGED FOR $200,000

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Two hundred thousand dollar worth of jewelry was stolen from Max Lowenthal, aged 35, an agent for the Phillip Crest Company, wholesale jewelers, of Rochester, N. Y., by two men early today.

Lowenthal was alighting a street car for his home after having been on a trip. He was knocked down and the two men grabbed his suit cases. They hailed a taxi and compelled the chauffeur, Clarence Miller, at the point of a revolver to drive them to the corner of Delaware and Pearl streets. He did so and the robbers alighted. Miller immediately went to a telephone booth and called the police but the robbers had escaped.

An empty suit case was found in a vacant lot. Police say it contained the initials of Lowenthal. The case contained a diamond ring which must have been overlooked by the robbers.

Police doubted that the jewelry was worth $200,000. Although Lowenthal placed the value at $200,000 police say they believe it was not worth more than $30,000. Advice from the company placed the value at $220,000.

CLEVELAND LEADS AT END OF 1ST INNING

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Edward Fox, aged 27, of Le, Washington, holds the long distance championship of a Philadelphia man was first in the bleachers at the Yankees' opening here today. Fox waited 20 hours in line. The line to Fox was Edward Brown of Youngstown and then Arthur Diggs, of Pittsburgh and George Chaney, of Erie. The bleachers which hold 9,000 were filling rapidly. All standing room was sold.

In the first inning Brooklyn had no runs, no hits, no errors and Cleveland 2 runs, two hits and no errors.

CLEVELAND FANS GIVE GLADIATORS BIG HAND IN FIRST HOME GAME

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 9.—The 1920 World Series came to its own in Cleveland today.

The Ohio metropolis has waited 42 years for the coming of the champion baseball club. The players were greeted by wild cheers by the thousands of fans in the bleachers.

The Indians came on the field at 12:50, and the Robins appeared at 12:55.

Codere is believed to be Manager Robinson's pick for Brooklyn's pitcher and Coveliskie to be Cleveland's pitcher.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—The Cleveland Indians donned war paint today, took up their tomahawks and started out undefeated of the fact that Brooklyn was credited with two games by their one in the World Series.

Big Chief Speaker, hearing the cries from his wigwam yelled, "We can do it. We are ready to lick the Robins."

Men were waiting outside the gates early this morning to pay toll to see the first World Series game played in this city.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN NO COAL SHORTAGE MARRIED IN SOUTH IS REPORTED NOW

A. Mitchell Chaves, Esq., youngest son of Mayor and Mrs. John M. Chaves was united in marriage at Atlanta, Georgia, on Wednesday, October 6th, to Miss Elsie Lake, a most estimable young lady of the Georgia city. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Dr. Sevier of the Presbyterian church.

The wedding was the culmination of a war romance. The groom was a member of Uncle Sam's flying forces during the world war and saw many months service overseas. While located in a southern training camp he first became acquainted with the young lady who was destined to become his bride.

When the hero outfit was ordered overseas the young couple kept up a correspondence and after the return of the army from Europe the acquaintance was renewed and Wednesday's wedding was the culmination.

The groom is the junior partner of the law firm of Chase & Chase and is one of the rising young attorneys of the Clearfield County Bar. He is justly popular in Clearfield and the young couple have the best wishes of a host of warm friends for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

PLATTOS WANTS TO WRESTLE ROBERTS

Lovers of the mat game in this section appear to be in line for a run at their favorite sport in the near future if one is to judge from the following communications:

Alliance, Ohio, Oct. 7 Sporting Editor The Progress Clearfield, Pa.

Dear Sir—Please give space in your paper to the following challenge: I will bring Charley Plattos, the Greek Hercules, to Clearfield to wrestle Leslie Roberts of Boardman, at any time he selects for any sized purse, even to the winner taking all at the gate. Plattos is in the pink of condition and is confident of his ability to throw Roberts.

Yours in sport,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A bit of bituminous coal price in Washington and consumers who have a supply on hand should only for immediate needs. The American Wholesale Coal Association announced today.

There is no danger of a bituminous coal shortage, the association said, and indicated that by holding off buying, consumers can cut prices. The statement of the association was prepared by its executive committee.

"It is the opinion of the committee that a great chance in the world market situation is imminent," the statement said.

Reasons Are Cited
Citing reasons for the price drop, the coal association pointed out that G. Leshor, former state chairman of the United States Geological Survey, estimated that a production of 100,000 tons of bituminous coal a week in December will meet the demand of the coal and pile up a $40,000,000 surplus.

The Geological Survey also stated that a most "satisfactory" condition of stock of bituminous coal now in the hands of consumers, and more than needed by the association.

Large consumers who usually buy large stocks now have a surplus of three-months supply, the association said.

Price Drops in West
In addition many large consumers no longer taking any surplus of coal offered and many coal owners are finding difficulty disposing of their stocks according to the association.

This is reflected in prices, which are as low as $2 a ton in the West. The association also pointed out that the close of navigation with the Greek Hercules, to Clearfield to wrestle Leslie Roberts of Boardman, at any time he selects for any sized purse, even to the winner taking all at the gate. THE LEE GIFT TO THE HOSPITAL

All things have their purpose. Every act of man is prompted by a reason. The letter written to the Hospital Campaign Committee by A. W. Lee offering $20,000 is singular in that it is not a blank subscription but a human document which tells how the donor feel about the hospital and expresses his hopes. First the letter is unusually interesting from the fact that it was agreed to by Mr. Lee that it could be used in any way by the committee. It is the first time that he has permitted wide and general publication of matters in connection with his private charities. Now read the letter itself:

MR. P. T. DAVIS, Chairman,
Clearfield Hospital Association,
of the Borough of Clearfield, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Davis:—I feel that there is a certain moral obligation on my part, (which I hope will be shared by the whole community) to help ameliorate the condition of our suffering citizens as far as it is possible to do so; and that the proper medium for this is the Clearfield Hospital; therefore I wish to say that I am authorized to subscribe the following amounts:

May E. Lee	$ 11,000.00
A. W. Lee, Jr.	1000.00
Mrs. Jane Joplin Lee	1000.00

Asbury W. Lee, III

Mary Jane Lee

Ella J. Goodfellow

Myself

I will also place in the hands of the Clearfield Trust Company, for the benefit of the Clearfield Hospital, Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) dollars in bonds bearing five per cent interest, after January 1st, 1921, as an endowment fund.

Wishing you and your co-laborers in this glorious cause full success, which the object so richly deserves, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
A. W. LEE.

The first thing that has attracted your attention has no doubt been the names and the various amounts set opposite them. We would not detract one whit from the wonderful family record but the real interest is not in the names inscribed on the letter or the amount so generously contributed. There is a human story in the first few words of that letter, a motive which when mentally digested, is an open and frank acknowledgement of responsibility which ought to be shared by every man in this end of Clearfield County. Let us repeat the first sentence—"I feel that there is a certain moral responsibility on my part." Are there not many of us who feel the same way about it but have not the moral courage to say so publicly?

Not alone is there uniqueness in the first sentence. Let us look carefully at the second—" (which I hope will be shared by the whole community.) " What does he hope? Simply that every other man in the community might feel that moral responsibility and ACT.

It is a wonderful letter from which there flows a wonderful spirit. It will be a monument to the name of Lee and a whip to the conscience of those among us who live selfishly and without thought of others.

DON'T "THROW THE GAME"

The nation was shocked a few days ago by revelations of wholesale corruption in what had been one of its most highly respected baseball teams. That some of the most famous players on the diamond have accepted money to "throw the game" was a startling revelation not alone of man's inherent weakness, but of the tremendous temptations that he is called upon to withstand.

They are all about us these temptations—petty and powerful, subtle and open, slinking and arrogant. Not only baseball players are called upon to face them. Every day, everywhere, they are whispering into men's minds the poisoned lure to "throw the game."

Discontent, Misunderstanding, Disappointment, Jealousy, Selfishness, Greed—these are the temptations that pierce their canker growth into the souls of men in high places and low.

A Room For The Ladies

A comfortably furnished rest room for use of our women customers opens off the lobby.

It is supplied with writing materials and the late magazines.

Women are invited to make free use of their room at the County National.

The County National Bank
OF CLEARFIELD

These are the temptations that urge a man, in a moment of anger, of chagrin, or despair, or covetousness to "throw the game."

A sales clerk who, piqued by a reprimand, rebuffs a customer and turns a friend of the store into an enemy, "throws the game."

The mill hand who resentful of a grievance, real or fancied, stands by while the output of hours of toil is destroyed, "throws the game."

The man who speaks of his family with criticism and disparagement instead of with respect and pride, "throws the game."

The man who fails always to do his best, to keep faith with all that is true and noble, to play his part with heart and soul, that man "throws the game."

The man who throws the game cheats not only his employer. He cheats his associates, he cheats the public, and above all he cheats himself. He sells his immortal soul for a mundane, fleeting price.

Gathering Coconuts.

Mature coconuts fall from the trees; but planters cannot always wait for them to fall, and there is no pole or ladder to reach one hundred feet; climbing is the only way, and coconut climbing is a trade in coconut countries. Professional tree-climbers have the speed and agility of monkeys. To facilitate the operation, they place a strong loop of coil rope around the feet, near the ankles; this enables them to grip the tree securely and ascend the highest trees with amazing alacrity. The climbers are also tree-tappers, that is, tapping the coconut bud for the sap from which arrack is made.

The Umbrella's Advent.

The first umbrella ever seen in this country reached Baltimore, a shipment of them coming from England in July, 1770. Hardly any of them found purchasers for quite a while. People laughed at the mollycoddle contrivance, which was not only foolish but unnecessary, inasmuch as rain would not melt anybody.

Toads Aid Horticulturists.

In Europe toads are carried to the States to market and are purchased by the horticulturists, who by their aid are enabled to keep in check the multiplication of the insects that prey upon such trans, flowers, etc.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash poisons and toxins from system before putting food into stomach.

Wash Poisons and toxins from system before putting food into stomach

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the alimentary canal before eating more food.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside bathing.

No Reduction in Price of Oakland Sensible Six

At this time when the public mind is disturbed by sensationally announced price reductions of automobiles and other merchandise and commodities, we desire to give assurance to those who require Personal Passenger Transportation, such as provided by the Oakland Sensible Six, that we do not anticipate reducing the price of our cars.

Starting with the production of the raw material required and continuing through to the finished product, over 80 per cent of the cost of an Oakland Sensible Six is labor.

Over 80 per cent of the cost of all other automobiles produced in large quantities is labor.

When wages paid to labor are reduced, or when labor produces more per man, then may manufacturers of honestly priced automobiles legitimately consider the reduction of their selling prices.

We have not heard of any instance where automobile workers are receiving lower wages.

If wages may be lowered eventually we see no immediate trend in that direction.

In the production of so essential a factor in our economic life as the passenger automobile---increasing as it does the personal efficiency of owners by nearly 57 per cent---we believe the workers whose toil produces the vehicle should be large beneficiaries of the constructive character of their work.

If abnormal demand has been responsible for over-enthusiastic expansion and inflated profits in certain instances, the wage earner should not be made to suffer as he must if powerful forces effect lower automobile prices whether or no.

True enough, there have been many instances of inflated prices. There has been profiteering. And true enough, abnormal profits must be eliminated.

And that is what has been going on all around you recently---the price reductions you have witnessed in automobiles and other merchandise are the belated shaking out of the abnormal profits. The normal profits are still here.

Manufacturers whose goods have been priced on actual cost to produce, plus normal profit, have no inflated figures with which to appeal to the uninformed public in sensational announcements of "Price Reductions". Prudent, studious buyers will not be misguided by erroneous principles.

Oakland Price Advance in Five Years, Due to Increased Cost of Labor and Material, Only 27.4 Per Cent

In 1915 Model 32 Oakland Sensible Six was put on the market at $795 f. o. b. factory.

Since 1915 the wheelbase of the Sensible Six has been lengthened five inches, its weight increased about four hundred pounds, its horsepower materially increased, its frame made deeper, and in many other ways the car has been enlarged, strengthened, improved and refined.

If the present Model 34-C had been built in 1915, it is more than conservative to say that, based on labor and material costs at that time, we would have been compelled to list it to sell at $1095, or more, f. o. b. factory.

We are therefore able to say, also with great conservatism, that the present price of Model 34-B represents an increase, due solely to increased costs of labor and material, of 27.4 per cent. Larger production each year has kept this increase at a low figure.

Compare this increase with the increase of other automobiles and with commodities---with the things you buy every day.

Nowhere have we been able to find a standard article of merchandise that has increased as little in selling price as the price of the Oakland Sensible Six.

In the event of unexpected reductions in the cost of the labor and material that enter into the construction of the Oakland Sensible Six to a point where we may properly and legitimately reduce the list price of our cars between October 1st, 1920, and May 1st, 1921, we will refund to every Oakland purchaser who buys within the above mentioned period of time the amount of such reduction.

SOCIAL PASTIME

A very pleasant social meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Finley at which a representative number was present, yesterday evening. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Finley of Franklin, formerly President, for quite a number of years, of Clearfield Union.

A circular announcing the candidacy for U. S. Senator of Mrs. Leah Cobb Marion was read. While she did not seek the nomination, states the platform upon which she stands, Mrs. S. C. Wilson, like Mrs. Marion, did not seek to be a candidate for Assembly, from our county, but as her name was placed upon the ticket, gave quite a talk upon the cause and purpose of our candidacy.

Mrs. Finley, being called upon gave a very pleasant talk stating her enjoyment at again being with the members of Clearfield Union, and speaking highly of the Franklin Union, who she delegates she is to the state convention at DuBois. Mrs. Sorythe followed with an interesting explanation of her work in this community, as outlined and carried on by the Red Cross and every woman at least, should know the desirability and great need of this work, not only in this section but everywhere; and be only too ready to avail themselves of such valuable service.

The social hour was much enjoyed engaging in conversation, largely upon the subjects under discussion. Much also in regard to state convention, though perhaps not overshadowing that of the election. Excellent refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

OVERHEARD

Place.—A Clearfield home.
Time.—Any time from now until Sunday.

Characters.—Mary and Jack.
Says Jack—"Mary, what do you say to chucking over all the Sunday fuss and going down-town for dinner next Sunday?"

Replies Mary—"Oh, Jack, that's great! I've heard the other girls saying how much they enjoyed the Dimmeling dinners. Everything is so well cooked, served so daintily and there's an air that makes the dinner worth eating."

period, slipped unnoticed from her parents' side and made her way to the door. She had just stepped out of the door, which was swinging shut behind her, when something came over, her head, smashed into the door and fell on her head.

Worshippers in the temple were startled and made a hasty exodus. The body of the little girl was found on the third, fourth and fifth step from the bottom.

The explosion occurred when several employees of the metal company were burning the body of a wagon in order to reclaim the iron on it. It is believed that the heat from the flames of the wagon caused the girl in the tank, which was supposed to be empty, to expand beyond the strength of its walls.

In a verdict rendered early this morning, a coroner's jury at North-eastern Police Station held that the explosion at the Monumental Iron and Metal Company, 18-22 South Eden street, by which Sarah Caplan, 6 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Caplan, 24 South Bond street, was killed, was due to the carelessness of the company and its employees.

John Bannion, 215 Augusta avenue, Irvington, head of the company, was held for action of the grand jury. Arrangements were made for his release in care of his attorney, James J. Carmody, until tomorrow morning, when he is to appear at the office of State's Attorney Leach to furnish bail.

Egyptians First in Field.

The earliest objects that civilization possesses in the way of ancient pottery show that the Egyptians were probably the first to use glazes, but the practice may have originated independently wherever a knowledge of early glazes were of the alkaline type which had to be first fused into a glass before it could be applied to pottery.

PENNSYLVANIA IS
GIVING ATTENTION TO EDUCATION

One of these days people of Pennsylvania will wake up to the fact that the Keystone state has an educational department in keeping with its wealth and importance. Dr. Thomas P. Finegan, the state superintendent of public instruction who by the way, has a title not only constitutional but which holds the record for being unchanged in the state government for decades, took Governor William C. Sproul at his word when he told him to make the department the best in the galaxy of states. Dr. Finegan has reorganized it from top to bottom created new bureaus and turned others inside out. Men in state service have been promoted and given new viewpoints and powers and duties; experts have been secured, old ideas scrapped and a structure started which in the course of a few months will be worth studying.

"We are going to have something to show one of these days. I have not completed the organization and it is not good to talk about what you are going to do unless you have it about done. It has taken months to plan this department, but when we get it ready, we will know what's right and what's wrong with our school system," said Dr. Finegan the other day. "We are going to know the situation in each district and we are going to make Pennsylvania's educational system as advanced as it is possible to make it. And one of the things I am happy to say is that there are so many splendid Pennsylvanians not only qualified but eager to help. I have found Pennsylvanians in other states ready to come back even at sacrifice, and I have gotten fin men from our counties who only need a wider field to be of great service to the Commonwealth."

Sun Hales.

Hales around the sun are good weather signs, and many weather proverbs based upon the observation of hales are founded upon sound scientific principles, according to a writer in the Scientific American. Studies of the relation of hales to rainfall show that during the summer months 50 to 60 per cent of all hales are followed by rain within 36 hours. During the winter months 70 to 75 per cent are followed. Precipitation follows sooner in winter than in summer because storms move more rapidly then.

THE BEST ON EARTH

Says Mrs. Staples of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I could not eat or sleep for six months, had fainting spells and could not walk without help for three months, caused by female trouble. My cousin, who was a doctor, told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me greatly. Then during the Change of Life I used the same remedy. I am seventy years old now and am able to do my own housework and walk one mile to church every Sunday morning and evening. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends having the same troubles as I had. Your remedy is the best on earth. I cannot find words to express my gratitude to it."—Mrs. SUSAN C. STAPLES, 157 E. School St., Taunton, Mass.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and illness. It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, such as displacements, inflammation, and ulceration. Why don't you try it?

FOODS FOR HOT WEATHER.

When preparing the breakfast coffee on a hot morning, add enough to make two or three extra cups, which may be served for dinner at night, feed, or for a cool drink at noon. There are so many kinds of cool drinks, from iced tea, coffee and cocoa, to all the fruit juices which one may put up at home, or purchase in the market.

To make iced coffee, take the beverage of the usual strength served when hot, add ice and sugar and cream as desired for each glass.

A chicken sandwich with a dish of head lettuce with a French dressing, or a more elaborate Thousand Isle dressing, makes a meal with a glass of chilled milk or iced tea, which is sufficiently satisfying for the most exacting appetite.

Lemon Syrup.—Grate the rind of one lemon, add the juice of six, with four cups of sugar and two cups of water. Boil all together for ten minutes; cool and put into a bottle in the ice chest. When serving, pour a little of the syrup into a glass, add chilled ice and fill the glass with cold water. This is such an easy way to have lemonade always ready to serve.

Gelatin Pie.—Bake a flaky crust on the bottom of a pie plate and, when cool, stir in a pint of any flavored gelatin, beaten until foamy and thick. Cover with whipped cream and serve cut in the usual way. Let stand on ice to become firm and ice-cold before serving.

Velvet Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cups of sugar, a quart of rich milk and the grated rind of one lemon. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then freeze as usual. This makes a most delicious frozen dish.

Tomato Salad.—Arrange one thick slice of tomato for each cover on heart leaves of lettuce. Over the tomato heap very finely minced celery, cucumber and onion which has been mixed with a French dressing to marinate. Top the salad with a small spoonful of mayonnaise and serve at once.

CELESTA

By BRUCE BERESFORD

(Copyright, 1919 by the Western Newspaper Union.)

When father was cross and mother tired out and sister Emma in a bad temper, pretty, gentle Aida Percy had an unfailing source of respite and pleasure—Celesta.

Celesta was her pet canary. He was nothing of a singer, although he had a full vocabulary of little chirpings, of odd expressiveness, covering a gamut from pitiful pleading down to the harsh intonations of complaint and scolding. As to his cute capers and tricks, his gyrations on his perch and his taking ways of daintily picking a cherry from Aida's own ruby lips and swinging on her neck chain extended lengthwise, he was acrobatic, entertaining, guest and lover all in one. He greeted her with joyful whistle at dawn and all but kissed her good night. Friends might prove false and suitors tiresome, but Celesta thought only of Aida, lived only for her, and when one day he lay dead in the bottom of his cage Aida could not have mourned more sincerely if it had been a cherished member of the family.

Aida took no one into the matter of the final disposition of her dead pet. "If there is a bird's heaven," she told her mother, "Celesta's spirit has gone there. As to the poor little body, it shall go back to the elements of nature that composed it."

So Aida went down to the basement where the janitor had his office. She had been to the florist's and had obtained a little box lined with soft white cotton. In this she placed the dead bird, covering him with flowers.

This impromptu casket she covered with folds of soft tissue paper. The janitor was conversing with a bright faced, well dressed young man as Aida entered the office.

"Mr. Nelson," she spoke, extending the parcel in her hand, "will you please place this in the furnace. It is my dead pet bird, Celesta, and I have no place to bury him."

The young man had drawn aside to afford Aida an opportunity to proffer her request. As she told the object of her mission he removed his hat, and Aida was grateful for what she took to be a recognition of respect, fond interest in the dead companion of many happy hours. Tears were in her eyes as she parted with all that remained of her little favorite. She turned away with only a casual glance at the young man.

It was an impulsive remark of a close girl friend that caused her new uneasiness and worry after she had become quite resigned to her loss. Aida had told this friend of the fate of the little bird. "Oh, Aida! how could you have consented to such a shocking thing as having poor Celesta burned up?" exclaimed Winnie Tower, and the more Aida thought of the act the deeper grew her regret and melancholy. One day she came across the janitor.

"Of course you disposed of my bird as I suggested," said Aida.

"No, Miss. I didn't," came the amazing reply. "Young Mr. Worrell asked me all about you that day you came in my office. He opened the little box and saw the flowers and everything. 'Nelson,' he says to me, 'I will take charge of this. We have a quiet pretty spot in our home garden where I am going to bury it.'"

"And who is Mr. Worrell?" questioned Aida, a load seeming to have been lifted from her heart.

"He and his sister own the building here," explained the janitor. "He is the young man who was here the day you brought the bird to me. He and his sister live in the big house with an iron fence all around a beautiful garden up on Morsey street, opposite the library building."

So little Celesta had appealed to other hearts than her own. A feeling of the most fervent gratitude toward Blake Worrell came to Aida, to remain permanently. One pleasant afternoon she walked slowly by the place the janitor described. Aida looked beyond the fence across the lovely flower beds and shrubbery, wondering where the grave of Celesta could be, and experiencing a sensation of rare relief and gladness to realize that her favorite reposed amid such beauty and peace.

A man and a woman came from the house and turned down the street toward the spot where Aida stood. She recognized the young man of the janitor's room. He halted paused, slightly lifted his hat and passed on while Aida flushed, she knew not why. The pair halted a few feet further on and the sweet faced lady, Worrell's sister, came back to Aida.

"My brother tells me you are Miss Percy," she spoke. "Can I venture to think that you would like to see where we have placed Celesta, alongside of two of our own remembered household pets?"

That broke the ice and let loose a flood of fervid emotions in the impressionable Aida. The three visited a little mound in a peaceful corner of the lovely garden, and when they parted Aida was warmly invited to again meet these true souled people, whose thoughts were so closely in harmony with her own.

And with the first flowers of spring blossoming, it was by the side of her husband that Aida Worrell looked down upon the little mound so precious to both.

ALMOST 108 MILLION PEOPLE IN THE U. S. INCREASE 15 P. C.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The population of continental United States is 105,683,108, it was announced at the census bureau today. The figures are subject to correction but any revision will leave them substantially the same, possibly a little higher, according to Samuel L. Rogers, director of the bureau.

The occasion was marked with considerable ceremony, Director Rogers, assistant director William Stuart, Chief Clerk Thomas J. Fitzgerald and Chief Statistician Hunt posed for the movies in the act of announcing the figures. Hundreds of census bureau employees looked on.

Although it was generally believed several months ago that Uncle Sam boasted of 110,000,000 nieces and nephews, it became apparent with the tabulation of the first figures that this estimate was some 5,000,000 too high.

During the past ten years, the rate of increase, it was stated, has been 14.9 per cent, as compared to 21 per cent during the preceding decade.

"The large falling off in the rate of increase is due mainly to an almost complete cessation of immigration during the past five years," said Mr. Rogers today. "In some degree it is due also to the influenza epidemic and casualties in the World War."

The substantial accuracy of the enumeration is born out by comparison with vital statistics and immigration figures, Mr. Rogers pointed out. The annual 1 per cent excess of births over deaths alone would bring the figures to 101,700,000.

The discouraging thing about telling a friend about an interesting thing like your own troubles is that it reminds him of his and he has to tell about them, as if anybody cared.

GAINS THIRTY POUNDS ON THREE BOTTLES OF NERV-WORTH

Josephine Smith of Dayton, Ohio, Had Fallen From 180 Pounds to 120, but Nerv-Worth Soon Restored her to Health and Helped Her to Rapidly Regain Her Former Strength and Weight.

"Almost 4 years ago I broke down completely," said Miss Smith, of Dunbar street, Dayton, Ohio, "and" she goes on, "I was very nervous and my stomach and digestion were in bad condition. I had pains in my knees and shoulders and I was also very weak. I would be so dizzy that I was afraid of falling whether in the house or on the street. I weighed 180 pounds, and I lost flesh until I weighed only 120. I purchased a bottle of Nerv-Worth and took it regularly and after using only 3 bottles I went up to 150 pounds in weight, and rapidly gained strength and now am gaining weight daily. Nerv-Worth restored my appetite, corrected all my stomach and bowel troubles, and today I am feeling strong and vigorous, and I don't need any medicine. I am just full that I found such a wonderful medicine as Nerv-Worth. My friends all thought I could never get well, but Nerv-Worth fixed me up and I am working every day." If you are underweight, run down, weak, nervous or half sick, why don't you let Nerv-Worth help you regain your health as it has helped thousands of others? Nerv-Worth acts in a sensible way to restore the whole system. You can't expect to be healthy if your stomach is out of order, or your nerve force is low. Nerv-Worth will overcome your stomach troubles, aid your digestion, drive out impurities, and nutrition, give you rich red blood, nerve force, and good health. It has stood the test of years and the amount sold in this vicinity is really remarkable. It is not a new and untried preparation, but for years has enjoyed unqualified sales in this community and has given universal satisfaction. Buy a bottle, take it according to directions and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. Call at Seavert's Drug store, get a free sample. Talk with the specialist and learn all about Nerv-Worth.

OLD FEUD ENDS WITH TWO IN HOSPITAL

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Oct. 9.—The Surface-Hathaway feud of long standing was believed near an end today with the two principals in a hospital suffering from bullet wounds.

The fighting was precipitated when Mrs. A. J. Hathaway engaged in a dispute with Mrs. Rosara Surface this morning. Their husbands completed the argument with a revolver duel police say.

Emery Jarvis, charged with purchasing the weapons, is in jail waiting the outcome of the injured.

WIDEAWAKE CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIANS READ THIS.

Rev. J. T. Scott, of Philipsburg will preach tomorrow morning and evening at the usual time. You all know that Rev. Scott conducted the special services during Easter week and that you can depend on hearing two good sermons. Let us all make a special effort to go to church tomorrow both morning and evening. Let Dr. Scott know that we have not forgotten him and the good services we had during his week with us. It will make him feel good and we are sure we will all be benefited by going to hear him. Let every officer of the church try to be there.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

THE LITTLE TURKEYS.

"Now," said Daddy, "the hens were thinking of laying again, for they hadn't hatched out their eggs, and while most of the time they gave eggs to the farmer for himself and his family and to sell in the spring-time they liked to hatch out some of the eggs into little chickens. That was right, and that was what suited everyone."

"That Mrs. Turkey was sitting on 24 eggs which in another week would hatch out into little turkeys."

"It Pleases Me."

She had been sitting for three weeks so far.

"She had been sitting and watching all that was going on. She had seen in the distance the light that Mr. Woodchuck and Mr. Skunk had had about their holes."

"She had seen the winter onions coming up of their own accord. They had come up as soon as the snow was off the ground, which they always did."

"She had talked to Mr. Rooster, who had frozen his feet the winter before in the snow bank, but who had forgotten now about the pain and aches he had felt in his feet then. Now he merely talked of the way the visitors to the farm admired his dainty way of walking about."

"Cock-a-doodle-do!" he said to Mrs. Turkey. "They speak of the dainty way in which I walk. Of course I must walk that way, for it is the only way I can walk, because of the accident that happened last year."

"But it pleases me to think that folks quite admire the way I walk and they say: 'Look at that rooster pricking his way so very daintily over the run.' I like to hear them say that."

"Mrs. Turkey had talked to the cows who had walked by on their way to and from milking. She had spoken just a little to the cows, for they had walked slowly down from the pasture and up to the pasture slowly in the evening, and in the morning as though they had the spring fever and couldn't walk much faster."

"Of course Mrs. Turkey knew it was because they had no great desire to hurry. They were lazy and they had the spring fever all of the year! They always took things easy and as if they were quite tired and lazy and didn't want to move any more than they had to or do any more than they had to."

"She had seen the old bull named Jack—a beautiful old bull who was the leader of the other bulls. They liked his leadership so much."

"She had seen Bobby, the farmer's youngest son, go by so many times. Lately he had taken with him his favorite black cat and the kittens he had kept for himself. The other kittens he had given to a neighbor."

"She had seen the cow who had gone near, and smelled the skin of another cow which was drying over a fence, for the other cow had been sold for meat which was needed by many people."

"But the old friend had gone up, and as she had smelled of the skin of her friend she bellowed in a lonely, sad fashion and had walked sorrowfully away."

"Most of the things Mrs. Turkey had looked at were all pleasant, though, and she had seen everyone being so happy in the springtime and in the early summer time."

"When Mrs. Turkey's little ones were born she taught them the things that all good turkey mothers teach their young, how they must keep their feet dry for a number of weeks so they will grow up into fine and strong turkeys."

"She watched them closely and saw that they were well fed and nourished, that they were kept healthy and strong and free from colds, and that they were able to grow up into fine and strong turkeys, because they were well looked after when they were little."

"And oh, as Mother Turkey watched them she said to herself: 'What a Thanksgiving turkey you will be, my dear,' as she pointed to one. 'And what a Christmas turkey you will be. And do not be sad, because you will be used for meat.'"

"It is a very great honor. A very great honor indeed! Turkeys are especially honored in this way."

"When water becomes ice," asked the teacher, "what is the great change that takes place?"

"The greatest change, ma'am," said the little boy, "is the change in price."

IF Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache is a sign you have been eating too much meat, which forms uric acid

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region, it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spell, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scales and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Better consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act free. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and purify sluggish kidneys, and to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder troubles.

Jad Salts is a life-saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

NUMBER 58

$48,500 ALREADY GIVEN TO HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

JUDGE BELL, CAPTAIN WOODWARD AND H. B. POWELL TELL PEOPLE AT MASS MEETING OF DRIVE

SOLICITATION BEGINS MONDAY

We're off (we say we, meaning you and I and everybody else who is going to participate in the Hospital Campaign)—and with a running jump.

The formal opening of the campaign so far as soliciting is concerned is not until Monday but the campaign is meeting with such favor among those who have the community needs at heart that when Monday rolls around at least twenty five per cent of the amount needed ($200,000) will be subscribed.

Loud and prolonged applause greeted the announcement made at the mass meeting last night that a grand total of $48,500 had already been subscribed. The meeting was well attended, the number attending being considerably larger than the directors of the campaign had hoped for.

Judge Bell made the opening address and urged those present to "get to work," not as a sentimental proposition but rather a good business proposition. His talk was in the nature of a sincere plea for individual action on the part of every man and woman in the county at least in accepting the responsibilities of community citizenship.

He was followed by Captain A. H. Woodward who told of the early history of the hospital, the vision and feeling of moral responsibility that brought the institution into being, the charities of the directors who time after time had made up deficits, the work of the ladies auxiliaries who labor unceasingly to improve the furnishings and equipment. He outlined the hospital proposition from every angle; sentimental, economical, financial and from the standpoint of public health.

H. B. Hartswick, Esq., then took the platform and made the announcement which all but brought the audience to their feet. Here is what it was:

Hospital Subscriptions to Date

Mr. A. W. Lee and members of household	$20,000
Mr. Rembrandt Peale	5,000
Four members of hospital staff	4,500
Eleven members of board of directors	9,150
Five private subscriptions totaling	6,850

Grand Total

The exceptional generosity of A. W. Lee and his family was the subject of the opening remarks made by H. B. Powell. He referred to the many and varied charities of Mr. Lee in connection with the hospital and other community undertakings and remarked that this was not the first time that this good citizen had come to the rescue of the hospital and expresses his hopes, liberal contribution of Mr. Peale, it being all the more remarkable because Mr. Peale, though having business interests in the county is not a resident of the county.

Mr. Powell told his hearers many things that have not been public knowledge; how, although the hospital is overcrowded nobody in need of medical or surgical attention is turned away; of the wonderful generosity of the physicians and surgeons in attending to the needs of the patients without thought of pecuniary reward; of the hundreds upon hundreds of pure charity cases in the wards; people unable to pay, yet attended with the same kindly, sympathetic care given to those able to have private rooms and pay for all they receive; how, at the present time, the expenses of the hospital are at least $1,000 a month over the income; how start it cannot help but succeed. Why, time after time the board of directors is there who will put a stone in it, have made up deficits without going to path?

The people for help. The entire address of Mr. Powell was complete with information which should and would set at rest all misunderstanding as to the true condition of affairs at the hospital. It is to be regretted that a stenographic record of his remarks, without thought of pecuniary reward, of the hundreds upon hundreds of pure charity cases in the wards, people unable to pay, yet attended with the same kindly, sympathetic care given to those able to have private rooms and pay for all they receive; how, at the present time, the expenses of the hospital are at least $1,000 a month over the income; how start it cannot help but succeed. Why, time after time the board of directors is there who will put a stone in it, have made up deficits without going to path?

An orchestra under the leadership of Professor Schaffer gave fine music with the same kindly, sympathetic campaign quartette made a decided hit. The campaign begins in earnest on Monday. With such a wonderful $1,000 a month over the income; how start it cannot help but succeed. Why, time after time the board of directors is there who will put a stone in it, have made up deficits without going to path?

JEWELRY SALESMAN YEGGED FOR $200,000

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Two hundred thousand dollar worth of jewelry was stolen from Max Lowenthal, aged 35, an agent for the Phillip Crest Company, wholesale jewelers, of Rochester, N. Y., by two men early today.

Lowenthal was alighting a street car for his home after having been on a trip. He was knocked down and the two men grabbed his suit cases. They hailed a taxi and compelled the chauffeur, Clarence Miller, at the point of a revolver to drive them to the corner of Delaware and Pearl streets. He did so and the robbers alighted. Miller immediately went to a telephone booth and called the police but the robbers had escaped.

An empty suit case was found in a vacant lot. Police say it contained the initials of Lowenthal. The case contained a diamond ring which must have been overlooked by the robbers.

Police doubted that the jewelry was worth $200,000. Although Lowenthal placed the value at $200,000 police say they believe it was not worth more than $30,000. Advice from the company placed the value at $220,000.

CLEVELAND LEADS AT END OF 1ST INNING

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Edward Fox, aged 27, of Le, Washington, holds the long distance championship of a Philadelphia man was first in the bleachers at the Warblers' opening here today. Fox waited 20 hours in line. The line to Fox was Edward Brown of Youngstown and then Arthur Diggs, of Pittsburgh and George Chaney, of Erie. The bleachers which hold 9,000 were filling rapidly. All standing room was sold.

In the first inning Brooklyn had no runs, no hits, no errors and Cleveland 2 runs, two hits and no errors.

CLEVELAND FANS GIVE GLADIATORS BIG HAND IN FIRST HOME GAME

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 9.—The 1920 World Series came to its own in Cleveland today.

The Ohio metropolis has waited 42 years for the coming of the champion baseball club. The players were greeted by wild cheers by the thousands of fans in the bleachers.

The Indians came on the field at 12:50, and the Robins appeared at 12:55.

Codere is believed to be Manager Robinson's pick for Brooklyn's pitcher and Coveliskie to be Cleveland's pitcher.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—The Cleveland Indians donned war paint today, took up their tomahawks and started out undefeated of the fact that Brooklyn was credited with two games by their one in the World Series.

Big Chief Speaker, hearing the cries from his wigwag yelled, "We can do it. We are ready to lick the Robins."

Men were waiting outside the gates early this morning to pay toll to see the first World Series game played in this city.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN NO COAL SHORTAGE MARRIED IN SOUTH IS REPORTED NOW

A. Mitchell Chaves, Esq., youngest son of Mayor and Mrs. John M. Chaves was united in marriage at Atlanta, Georgia, on Wednesday, October 6th, to Miss Elsie Lake, a most estimable young lady of the Georgia city. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Dr. Sevier of the Presbyterian church.

The wedding was the culmination of a war romance. The groom was a member of Uncle Sam's flying forces during the world war and saw many months service overseas. While located in a southern training camp he first became acquainted with the young lady who was destined to become his bride.

When the hero outfit was ordered overseas the young couple kept up a correspondence and after the return of the army from Europe the acquaintance was renewed and Wednesday's wedding was the culmination.

The groom is the junior partner of the law firm of Chase & Chase and is one of the rising young attorneys of the Clearfield County Bar. He is justly popular in Clearfield and the young couple have the best wishes of a host of warm friends for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

Plattos wants to wrestle Roberts.

Lovers of the mat game in this section appear to be in line for a run at their favorite sport in the near future if one is to judge from the following communications:

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A bit of bituminous coal price in Washington and consumers who have a supply on hand should only for immediate needs. The American Wholesale Coal Association declared today.

There is no danger of a bituminous coal shortage, the association said, and indicated that by holding off buying, consumers can cut prices. The statement of the association was prepared by its executive committee.

"It is the opinion of the committee that a great chance in the world market situation is imminent," the statement said.

Reasons Are Cited

Citing reasons for the price drop, the coal association pointed out that G. Leshor, former state geologist of the United States Geological Survey, estimated that a production of 100,000 tons of bituminous coal a week could be produced in the United States.

The Geological Survey also stated that a most "satisfactory" quantity of stock of bituminous coal now in the hands of consumers, and more is being ordered by the association.

Large consumers who usually buy large stocks now have a way to a three-month supply, the association said.

Price Drops in West

In addition many large consumers no longer taking advantage of the offered and many coal buyers are finding difficulty disposing of their stocks according to the market.

This is reflected in prices, which are as low as $2 a ton in the West. The association also pointed out that the close of navigation with the Greek Hercules, to Clearfield to wrestle Leslie Roberts of Boardman, at any time he selects for any sized purse, even to the winner taking all at the gate. Plattos is in the pink of condition and is confident of his ability to throw Roberts.

NO DOUBT ABOUT WHERE MR. HARDING STANDS ON THE BIGGEST ISSUE

With that same firm stand which characterized his position on the League and the railroad issue Senator Harding met hecklers on the Irish question and the matter of an amnesty for so-called political prisoners.

Senator Harding appeared in rare form at the Des Moines meeting, handling himself in and out of the tangled line of questions with a good nature that appealed instantly to the crowd and even to the hecklers, one of whom was the Rev. John J. McGuinness, rector of St. Anthony's church who directed the questions regarding Ireland.

"I do not propose to discuss in detail the internal affairs of a foreign nation," said Senator Harding in reply to Father McGuinness' questions. "I would not undertake to tell Great Britain what her policy in Ireland should be any more than I would permit her to tell us what we must do with the Philippines. I have a sympathetic feeling myself for Irish freedom, but that way in the Senate. But I won't try to feel the Irish; they are too good for that. And I should say much dislike to be a presidential candidate who tells the friends of Irish freedom that it can be solved under the Paris League of Nations, on the one hand and then go right to

STATE MEETING OF W. C. T. U AT DUBOIS ON OCTOBER 15TH

With that same firm stand which characterized his position on the League and the railroad issue Senator Harding met hecklers on the Irish question and the matter of an amnesty for so-called political prisoners.

Senator Harding appeared in rare form at the Des Moines meeting, handling himself in and out of the tangled line of questions with a good nature that appealed instantly to the crowd and even to the hecklers, one of whom was the Rev. John J. McGuinness, rector of St. Anthony's church who directed the questions regarding Ireland.

"I do not propose to discuss in detail the internal affairs of a foreign nation," said Senator Harding in reply to Father McGuinness' questions. "I would not undertake to tell Great Britain what her policy in Ireland should be any more than I would permit her to tell us what we must do with the Philippines. I have a sympathetic feeling myself for Irish freedom, but that way in the Senate. But I won't try to feel the Irish; they are too good for that. And I should say much dislike to be a presidential candidate who tells the friends of Irish freedom that it can be solved under the Paris League of Nations, on the one hand and then go right to

A Criminal a Criminal

"I have been asked many times during the campaign whether I would grant general amnesty as it is called, to political prisoners. A general grant of amnesty to political prisoners is no more justified than a general grant of amnesty to yeggmen. If there is any distinction between the danger of yeggmen and political conspirators I believe most Americans will uphold me when I said it is the political conspirator who is the great menace to the United States. If there are political prisoners who are being punished unjustly and who have been punished contrary to our spirit of fair play I shall want to know it and I shall want to take immediate action to restore justice to such men and women precisely as I will wish to give freedom to any man or woman who has been unjustly accused of ordinary crimes. Amnesty for prisoners or common prisoners, is a matter for humane consideration, applied only for the purpose of correcting wrongs which have been done during a time of stress."

THE LEE GIFT TO THE HOSPITAL

All things have their purpose. Every act of man is prompted by a reason. The letter written to the Hospital Campaign Committee by A. W. Lee offering $20,000 is singular in that it is not a blank subscription but a human document which tells how the donor feel about the hospital and expresses his hopes. First the letter is unusually interesting from the fact that it was agreed to by Mr. Lee that it could be used in any way by the committee. It is the first time that he has permitted wide and general publication of matters in connection with his private charities. Now read the letter itself:

MR. P. T. DAVIS, Chairman,
Clearfield Hospital Association,
of the Borough of Clearfield, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Davis:—I feel that there is a certain moral obligation on my part, (which I hope will be shared by the whole community) to help ameliorate the condition of our suffering citizens as far as it is possible to do so; and that the proper medium for this is the Clearfield Hospital; therefore I wish to say that I am authorized to subscribe the following amounts:

May E. Lee	$ 11,000.00
A. W. Lee, Jr.	1000.00
Mrs. Jane Joplin Lee	1000.00

Asbury W. Lee, III

Myself

I will also place in the hands of the Clearfield Trust Company, for the benefit of the Clearfield Hospital, Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) dollars in bonds bearing five per cent interest, after January 1st, 1921, as an endowment fund.

Wishing you and your co-laborers in this glorious cause full success, which the object so richly deserves, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
A. W. LEE.

The first thing that has attracted your attention has no doubt been the names and the various amounts set opposite them. We would not detract one whit from the wonderful family record but the real interest is not in the names inscribed on the letter or the amount so generously contributed. There is a human story in the first few words of that letter, a motive which when mentally digested, is an open and frank acknowledgement of responsibility which ought to be shared by every man in this end of Clearfield County. Let us repeat the first sentence—"I feel that there is a certain moral responsibility on my part." Are there not many of us who feel the same way about it but have not the moral courage to say so publicly?

Not alone is there uniqueness in the first sentence. Let us look carefully at the second—" (which I hope will be shared by the whole community.)" What does he hope? Simply that every other man in the community might feel that moral responsibility and ACT.

It is a wonderful letter from which there flows a wonderful spirit. It will be a monument to the name of Lee and a whip to the conscience of those among us who live selfishly and without thought of others.

DON'T "THROW THE GAME"

The nation was shocked a few days ago by revelations of wholesale corruption in what had been one of its most highly respected baseball teams. That some of the most famous players on the diamond have accepted money to "throw the game" was a startling revelation not alone of man's inherent weakness, but of the tremendous temptations that he is called upon to withstand.

They are all about us these temptations—petty and powerful, subtle and open, slinking and arrogant. Not only baseball players are called upon to face them. Every day, everywhere, they are whispering into men's minds the poisoned lure to "throw the game."

Discontent, Misunderstanding, Disappointment, Jealousy, Selfishness, Greed—these are the temptations that pierce their canker growth into the souls of men in high places and low.

A Room For The Ladies

A comfortably furnished rest room for use of our women customers opens off the lobby.

It is supplied with writing materials and the late magazines.

Women are invited to make free use of their room at the County National.

The County National Bank
OF CLEARFIELD

These are the temptations that urge a man, in a moment of anger, of chagrin, or despair, or covetousness to "throw the game."

A sales clerk who, piqued by a reprimand, rebuffs a customer and turns a friend of the store into an enemy, "throws the game."

The mill hand who resentful of a grievance, real or fancied, stands by while the output of hours of toil is destroyed, "throws the game."

The man who speaks of his family with criticism and disparagement instead of with respect and pride, "throws the game."

The man who fails always to do his best, to keep faith with all that is true and noble, to play his part with heart and soul, that man "throws the game."

The man who throws the game cheats not only his employer. He cheats his associates, he cheats the public, and above all he cheats himself. He sells his immortal soul for a mundane, fleeting price.

Gathering Coconuts.

Mature coconuts fall from the trees; but planters cannot always wait for them to fall, and there is no pole or ladder to reach one hundred feet; climbing is the only way, and coconut tree climbing is a trade in coconut countries. Professional tree-climbers have the speed and agility of monkeys. To facilitate the operation, they place a strong loop of coir rope around the feet, near the ankles; this enables them to grip the tree securely and ascend the highest trees with amazing alacrity. The climbers are also tree-tappers, that is, tapping the coconut bud for the sap from which arrack is made.

The Umbrella's Advent.

The first umbrella ever seen in this country reached Baltimore, a shipment of them coming from England in July, 1770. Hardly any of them found purchasers for quite a while. People laughed at the mollycoddle contrivance, which was not only foolish but unnecessary, inasmuch as rain would not melt anybody.

Toads Aid Horticulturists.

In Europe toads are carried to the States to market and are purchased by the horticulturists, who by their aid are enabled to keep in check the multiplication of the insects that prey upon such trans, flowers, etc.

Will Be Tough on Painters.

It is believed by the Moslems that at the judgment day painters will be required to provide with souls all representations of human beings which they have made. Failing in this ordeal, they will lose their own soul as a forfeit for their presumptuous imitation of the work of the Creator.

Every Man Who Uses Overalls

We feature Carhart Overalls. Why? Because they're the overall that gives you the best value for your money.

Carhart overalls are made in the Carhart factory from Carhart Overall cloth made in Carhart mills. The cloth is made from cotton specially grown and processed for Carhart.

There's a careful sewing of seams, a full roomy cut, buttons that will stay on until the overalls are worn out.

The next pair of overalls you buy come in and say "Let's see those Carhart Overalls!"

The Appalachian mountains are so called because they have been covered by the plications or folds of the rock layers which make up the crust of the earth in this region. Some of the strata of rock have been so folded that they are practically on end or upside down.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash poisons and toxins from system before putting food into stomach.

Wash Poisons and toxins from system before putting food into stomach

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the alimentary canal before eating more food.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside bathing.

The Clearfield Progress

No Reduction in Price of Oakland Sensible Six

At this time when the public mind is disturbed by sensationally announced price reductions of automobiles and other merchandise and commodities, we desire to give assurance to those who require Personal Passenger Transportation, such as provided by the Oakland Sensible Six, that we do not anticipate reducing the price of our cars.

Starting with the production of the raw material required and continuing through to the finished product, over 80 per cent of the cost of an Oakland Sensible Six is labor.

Over 80 per cent of the cost of all other automobiles produced in large quantities is labor.

When wages paid to labor are reduced, or when labor produces more per man, then may manufacturers of honestly priced automobiles legitimately consider the reduction of their selling prices.

We have not heard of any instance where automobile workers are receiving lower wages.

If wages may be lowered eventually we see no immediate trend in that direction.

In the production of so essential a factor in our economic life as the passenger automobile---increasing as it does the personal efficiency of owners by nearly 57 per cent---we believe the workers whose toil produces the vehicle should be large beneficiaries of the constructive character of their work.

If abnormal demand has been responsible for over-enthusiastic expansion and inflated profits in certain instances, the wage earner should not be made to suffer as he must if powerful forces effect lower automobile prices whether or no.

True enough, there have been many instances of inflated prices. There has been profiteering. And true enough, abnormal profits must be eliminated.

And that is what has been going on all around you recently---the price reductions you have witnessed in automobiles and other merchandise are the belated shaking out of the abnormal profits. The normal profits are still here.

Manufacturers whose goods have been priced on actual cost to produce, plus normal profit, have no inflated figures with which to appeal to the uninformed public in sensational announcements of "Price Reductions". Prudent, studious buyers will not be misguided by erroneous principles.

Oakland Price Advance in Five Years, Due to Increased Cost of Labor and Material, Only 27.4 Per Cent

In 1915 Model 32 Oakland Sensible Six was put on the market at $795 f. o. b. factory.

Since 1915 the wheelbase of the Sensible Six has been lengthened five inches, its weight increased about four hundred pounds, its horsepower materially increased, its frame made deeper, and in many other ways the car has been enlarged, strengthened, improved and refined.

If the present Model 34-C had been built in 1915, it is more than conservative to say that, based on labor and material costs at that time, we would have been compelled to list it to sell at $1095, or more, f. o. b. factory.

We are therefore able to say, also with great conservatism, that the present price of Model 34-B represents an increase, due solely to increased costs of labor and material, of 27.4 per cent. Larger production each year has kept this increase at a low figure.

Compare this increase with the increase of other automobiles and with commodities---with the things you buy every day.

Nowhere have we been able to find a standard article of merchandise that has increased as little in selling price as the price of the Oakland Sensible Six.

In the event of unexpected reductions in the cost of the labor and material that enter into the construction of the Oakland Sensible Six to a point where we may properly and legitimately reduce the list price of our cars between October 1st, 1920, and May 1st, 1921, we will refund to every Oakland purchaser who buys within the above mentioned period of time the amount of such reduction.

SOCIAL PASTIME

A very pleasant social meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Finney at which a representative number was present, yesterday evening. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Finley of Franklin, formerly President, for quite a number of years, of Clearfield Union.

A circular announcing the candidacy for U. S. Senator of Mrs. Leah Cobb Marion was read. While she did not seek the nomination, states the platform upon which she stands, Mrs. S. C. Wilson, like Mrs. Marion, did not seek to be a candidate for Assembly, from our county, but as her name was placed upon the ticket, gave quite a talk upon the cause and purpose of our candidacy.

Mrs. Finley, being called upon gave a very pleasant talk stating her enjoyment at again being with the members of Clearfield Union, and speaking highly of the Franklin Union, who she delegates she is to the state convention at DuBois. Mrs. Sorythe followed with an interesting explanation of her work in this community, as outlined and carried on by the Red Cross and every woman at least, should know the desirability and great need of this work, not only in this section but everywhere; and be only too ready to avail themselves of such valuable service.

The social hour was much enjoyed engaging in conversation, largely upon the subjects under discussion. Much also in regard to state convention, though perhaps not overshadowing that of the election. Excellent refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

period, slipped unnoticed from her parents' side and made her way to the door. She had just stepped out of the door, which was swinging shut behind her, when something came over, her head, smashed into the door and fell on her head.

Worshippers in the temple were startled and made a hasty exodus. The body of the little girl was found on the third, fourth and fifth step from the bottom.

The explosion occurred when several employees of the metal company were burning the body of a wagon in order to reclaim the iron on it. It is believed that the heat from the flames of the wagon caused the girl in the tank, which was supposed to be empty, to expand beyond the strength of its walls.

In a verdict rendered early this morning, a coroner's jury at Northeastern Police Station held that the explosion at the Monumental Iron and Metal Company, 18-22 South Eden street, by which Sarah Caplan, 6 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Caplan, 24 South Bond street, was killed, was due to the carelessness of the company and its employees.

John Bannion, 215 Augusta avenue, Irvington, head of the company, was held for action of the grand jury. Arrangements were made for his release in care of his attorney, James J. Carmody, until tomorrow morning, when he is to appear at the office of State's Attorney Leach to furnish bail.

PENNSYLVANIA IS
GIVING ATTENTION
TO EDUCATION

One of these days people of Pennsylvania will wake up to the fact that the Keystone state has an educational department in keeping with its wealth and importance. Dr. Thomas P. Finegan, the state superintendent of public instruction who by the way, has a title not only constitutional but which holds the record for being unchanged in the state government for decades, took Governor William C. Sproul at his word when he told him to make the department the best in the galaxy of states. Dr. Finegan has reorganized it from top to bottom created new bureaus and turned others inside out. Men in state service have been promoted and given new viewpoints and powers and duties; experts have been secured, old ideas scrapped and a structure started which in the course of a few months will be worth studying.

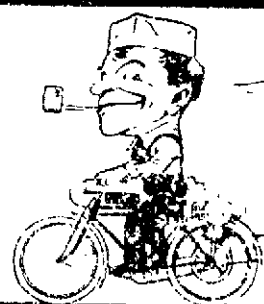

"We are going to have something to show one of these days. I have not completed the organization and it is not good to talk about what you are going to do unless you have it about done. It has taken months to plan this department, but when we get it ready, we will know what's right and what's wrong with our school system," said Dr. Finegan the other day. "We are going to know the situation in each district and we are going to make Pennsylvania's educational system as advanced as it is possible to make it. And one of the things I am happy to say is that there are so many splendid Pennsylvanians not only qualified but eager to help. I have found Pennsylvanians in other states ready to come back even at sacrifice, and I have gotten fine men from our counties who only need a wider field to be of great service to the Commonwealth."

Sun Hales.

Hales around the sun are good weather signs, and many weather proverbs based upon the observation of hales are founded upon sound scientific principles, according to a writer in the Scientific American. Studies of the relation of hales to rainfall show that during the summer months 50 to 60 per cent of all hales are followed by rain within 36 hours. During the winter months 70 to 75 per cent are followed. Precipitation follows sooner in winter than in summer because storms move more rapidly then.

Will Lower the Price
Of Chevrolet
When It's Possible

There has not yet been a reduction in the prices of materials and labor that would affect the 1921 Chevrolet cost of production. They are yet making cars on the high labor and high material market. If a reduction comes you may rest assured that your Chevrolet will be reduced in price.

THE BEST ON EARTH

Says Mrs. Staples of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I could not eat or sleep for six months, had fainting spells and could not walk without help for three months, caused by female trouble. My cousin, who was a doctor, told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me greatly. Then during the Change of Life I used the same remedy. I am seventy years old now and am able to do my own housework and walk one mile to church every Sunday morning and evening. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends having the same troubles as I had. Your remedy is the best on earth. I cannot find words to express my gratitude to it."—Mrs. SUSAN C. STAPLES, 157 E. School St., Taunton, Mass.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and illness. It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, such as displacements, inflammation, and ulceration. Why don't you try it?

FOODS FOR HOT WEATHER.

When preparing the breakfast coffee on a hot morning, add enough to make two or three extra cups, which may be served for dinner at night, feed, or for a cool drink at noon. There are so many kinds of cool drinks, from iced tea, coffee and cocoa, to all the fruit juices which one may put up at home, or purchase in the market.

To make iced coffee, take the beverage of the usual strength served when hot, add ice and sugar and cream as desired for each glass.

A chicken sandwich with a dish of head lettuce with a French dressing, or a more elaborate Thousand Isle dressing, makes a meal with a glass of chilled milk or iced tea, which is sufficiently satisfying for the most exacting appetite.

Lemon Syrup.—Grate the rind of one lemon, add the juice of six, with four cups of sugar and two cups of water. Boil all together for ten minutes; cool and put into a bottle in the ice chest. When serving, pour a little of the syrup into a glass, add chilled ice and fill the glass with cold water. This is such an easy way to have lemonade always ready to serve.

Gelatin Pie.—Bake a flaky crust on the bottom of a pie plate and, when cool, stir in a pint of any flavored gelatin, beaten until foamy and thick. Cover with whipped cream and serve cut in the usual way. Let stand on ice to become firm and ice-cold before serving.

Velvet Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cups of sugar, a quart of rich milk and the grated rind of one lemon. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then freeze as usual. This makes a most delicious frozen dish.

Tomato Salad.—Arrange one thick slice of tomato for each cover on heart leaves of lettuce. Over the tomato heap very finely minced celery, cucumber and onion which has been mixed with a French dressing to marinate. Top the salad with a small spoonful of mayonnaise and serve at once.

Motorists are sometimes accused of being road hogs and it may be true, as a little observation sometimes proves it to be true. Last Sunday evening about 7 o'clock a motorist on the detour between Woodland and Bigler was so unfortunate as to meet one of this sort at the forks of the road just above the Vulcan Trading Co. store, Woodland, and to avoid being run into ran so close to the edge of the bank that he ran off over and dropped two wheels in the deep ditch from which he was unable to extricate the car without help. While he was in the ditch at least twenty cars passed him by and did not offer any assistance. However, by the help of some people who were on their way to church he was finally able to get out and went on his way rejoicing.

CELESTA

By BRUCE BERESFORD

(Copyright, 1919 by the Western Newspaper Union.)

When father was cross and mother tired out and sister Emma in a bad temper, pretty, gentle Aida Percy had an unfailing source of respite and pleasure—Celesta.

Celesta was her pet canary. He was nothing of a singer, although he had a full vocabulary of little chirpings, of odd expressiveness, covering a gamut from pitiful pleading down to the harsh intonations of complaint and scolding. As to his cute capers and tricks, his gyrations on his perch and his taking ways of daintily picking a cherry from Aida's own ruby lips and swinging on her neck chain extended lengthwise, he was acrobatic, entertaining, guest and lover all in one. He greeted her with joyful whistle at dawn and all but kissed her good night. Friends might prove false and suitors tiresome, but Celesta thought only of Aida, lived only for her, and when one day he lay dead in the bottom of his cage Aida could not have mourned more sincerely if it had been a cherished member of the family.

Aida took no one into the matter of the final disposition of her dead pet. "If there is a bird's heaven," she told her mother, "Celesta's spirit has gone there. As to the poor little body, it shall go back to the elements of nature that composed it."

So Aida went down to the basement where the janitor had his office. She had been to the florist's and had obtained a little box lined with soft white cotton. In this she placed the dead bird, covering him with flowers.

This impromptu casket she covered with folds of soft tissue paper. The janitor was conversing with a bright faced, well dressed young man as Aida entered the office.

"Mr. Nelson," she spoke, extending the parcel in her hand, "will you please place this in the furnace. It is my dead pet bird, Celesta, and I have no place to bury him."

The young man had drawn aside to afford Aida an opportunity to proffer her request. As she told the object of her mission he removed his hat, and Aida was grateful for what she took to be a recognition of respect, fond interest in the dead companion of many happy hours. Tears were in her eyes as she parted with all that remained of her little favorite. She turned away with only a casual glance at the young man.

It was an impulsive remark of a close girl friend that caused her new uneasiness and worry after she had become quite resigned to her loss. Aida had told this friend of the fate of the little bird. "Oh, Aida! how could you have consented to such a shocking thing as having poor Celesta burned up?" exclaimed Winne Tower, and the more Aida thought of the act the deeper grew her regret and melancholy. One day she came across the janitor.

"Of course you disposed of my bird as I suggested," said Aida.

"No, Miss. I didn't," came the amazing reply. "Young Mr. Worrell asked me all about you that day you came in my office. He opened the little box and saw the flowers and everything. 'Nelson,' he says to me, 'I will take charge of this. We have a quiet pretty spot in our home garden where I am going to bury it.'"

"And who is Mr. Worrell?" questioned Aida, a load seeming to have been lifted from her heart.

"He and his sister own the building here," explained the janitor. "He is the young man who was here the day you brought the bird to me. He and his sister live in the big house with an iron fence all around a beautiful garden up on Morsey street, opposite the library building."

So little Celesta had appealed to other hearts than her own. A feeling of the most fervent gratitude toward Blake Worrell came to Aida, to remain permanently. One pleasant afternoon she walked slowly by the place the janitor described. Aida looked beyond the fence across the lovely flower beds and shrubbery, wondering where the grave of Celesta could be, and experiencing a sensation of rare relief and gladness to realize that her favorite reposed amid such beauty and peace.

A man and a woman came from the house and turned down the street toward the spot where Aida stood. She recognized the young man of the janitor's room. He halted paused, slightly lifted his hat and passed on while Aida flushed, she knew not why. The pair halted a few feet further on and the sweet faced lady, Worrell's sister, came back to Aida.

"My brother tells me you are Miss Percy," she spoke. "Can I venture to think that you would like to see where we have placed Celesta, alongside of two of our own remembered household pets?"

That broke the ice and let loose a flood of fervid emotions in the impressionable Aida. The three visited a little mound in a peaceful corner of the lovely garden, and when they parted Aida was warmly invited to again meet these true souled people, whose thoughts were so closely in harmony with her own.

And with the first flowers of spring blossoming, it was by the side of her husband that Aida Worrell looked down upon the little mound so precious to both.

ALMOST 108 MILLION PEOPLE IN THE U. S. INCREASE 15 P. C.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The population of continental United States is 105,683,108, it was announced at the census bureau today. The figures are subject to correction but any revision will leave them substantially the same, possibly a little higher, according to Samuel L. Rogers, director of the bureau.

The occasion was marked with considerable ceremony, Director Rogers, assistant director William Stuart, Chief Clerk Thomas J. Fitzgerald and Chief Statistician Hunt posed for the movies in the act of announcing the figures. Hundreds of census bureau employees looked on.

Although it was generally believed several months ago that Uncle Sam boasted of 110,000,000 nieces and nephews, it became apparent with the tabulation of the first figures that this estimate was some 5,000,000 too high.

During the past ten years, the rate of increase, it was stated, has been 14.9 per cent, as compared to 21 per cent during the preceding decade.

"The large falling off in the rate of increase is due mainly to an almost complete cessation of immigration during the past five years," said Mr. Rogers today. "In some degree it is due also to the influenza epidemic and casualties in the World War."

The substantial accuracy of the enumeration is born out by comparison with vital statistics and immigration figures, Mr. Rogers pointed out. The annual 1 per cent excess of births over deaths alone would bring the figures to 101,700,000.

GAINS THIRTY POUNDS ON THREE BOTTLES OF NERV-WORTH

Josephine Smith of Dayton, Ohio, Had Fallen From 180 Pounds to 120, but Nerv-Worth Soon Restored her to Health and Helped Her to Rapidly Regain Her Former Strength and Weight.

"About 4 years ago I broke down completely," said Miss Smith, of Dunbar street, Dayton, Ohio, "and" she goes on, "I was very nervous and my stomach and digestion were in bad condition. I had pains in my knees and shoulders and I was also very weak. I would be so dizzy that I was afraid of falling whether in the house or on the street. I weighed 180 pounds, and I lost flesh until I weighed only 120. I purchased a bottle of Nerv-Worth and took it regularly and after using only 3 bottles I went up to 150 pounds in weight, and rapidly gained strength and now am gaining weight daily. Nerv-Worth restored my appetite, corrected all my stomach and bowel troubles, and today I am feeling strong and vigorous, and I don't need any medicine. I am just full that I found such a wonderful medicine as Nerv-Worth. My friends all thought I could never get well, but Nerv-Worth fixed me up and I am working every day." If you are underweight, run down, weak, nervous or half sick, why don't you let Nerv-Worth help you regain your health as it has helped thousands of others? Nerv-Worth acts in a sensible way to restore the whole system. You can't expect to be healthy if your stomach is out of order, or your nerve force is low. Nerv-Worth will overcome your stomach troubles, aid your digestion, drive out impurities, and nutrition, give you rich red blood, nerve force, and good health. It has stood the test of years and the amount sold in this vicinity is really remarkable. It is not a new and untried preparation, but for years has enjoyed universal sales in this community and has given universal satisfaction. Buy a bottle, take it according to directions and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. Call at Seavert's Drug store, get a free sample. Talk with the specialist and learn all about Nerv-Worth.

POLICE MAKE REPRISALS FOR SOLDIERS' LIVES.

CORK, Oct. 9.—A large body of police stormed the city hall, burning it, together with several other buildings.

The attack is believed to be a reprisal for the killing of soldiers by civilians in Dublin yesterday.

New Process Hardens Wood.

A new process of artificially aging and hardening wood, which is a new industry in Denmark, is said to give a quality of durability to timber heretofore regarded as worthless. Ash becomes like real oak and birch like mahogany.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

THE LITTLE TURKEYS.

"Now," said Daddy, "the hens are thinking of laying again, for they hadn't hatched out their eggs, and while most of the time they gave eggs to the farmer for himself and his family and to sell, in the spring-time they liked to hatch out some of the eggs into little chickens. That was right, and that was what suited everyone."

"That Mrs. Turkey was sitting on 24 eggs which in another week would hatch out into little turkeys."

"It Pleases Me."

She had been sitting for three weeks so far.

"She had been sitting and watching all that was going on. She had seen in the distance the light that Mr. Woodchuck and Mr. Skunk had had about their holes."

"She had seen the winter onions coming up of their own accord. They had come up as soon as the snow was off the ground, which they always did."

"She had talked to Mr. Rooster, who had frozen his feet the winter before in the snow bank, but who had forgotten now about the pain and aches he had felt in his feet then. Now he merely talked of the way the visitors to the farm admired his dainty way of walking about."

"Cook-a-doodle-do!" he said to Mrs. Turkey. "They speak of the dainty way in which I walk. Of course I must walk that way, for it is the only way I can walk, because of the accident that happened last year."

"But it pleases me to think that folks quite admire the way I walk and they say: 'Look at that rooster pricking his way so very daintily over the run.' I like to hear them say that."

"Mrs. Turkey had talked to the cows who had walked by on their way to and from milking. She had spoken just a little to the cows, for they had walked slowly down from the pasture and up to the pasture slowly in the evening, and in the morning as though they had the spring fever and couldn't walk much faster."

"Of course Mrs. Turkey knew it was because they had no great desire to hurry. They were lazy and they had the spring fever all of the year! They always took things easy and as if they were quite tired and lazy and didn't want to move any more than they had to or do any more than they had to."

"She had seen the old bull named Jack—a beautiful old bull who was the leader of the other bulls. They liked his leadership so much."

"She had seen Bobby, the farmer's youngest son, go by so many times. Lately he had taken with him his favorite black cat and the kittens he had kept for himself. The other kittens he had given to a neighbor."

"She had seen the cow who had gone near, and smelled the skin of another cow which was drying over a fence, for the other cow had been sold for meat which was needed by many people."

"But the old friend had gone up, and as she had smelled of the skin of her friend she bellowed in a lonely, sad fashion and had walked sorrowfully away."

"Most of the things Mrs. Turkey had looked at were all pleasant, though, and she had seen everyone being so happy in the springtime and in the early summer time."

"When Mrs. Turkey's little ones were born she taught them the things that all good turkey mothers teach their young, how they must keep their feet dry for a number of weeks so they will grow up into fine and strong turkeys."

"She watched them closely and saw that they were well fed and nourished, that they were kept healthy and strong and free from colds, and that they were able to grow up into fine and strong turkeys, because they were well looked after when they were little."

"And oh, as Mother Turkey watched them she said to herself: 'What a Thanksgiving turkey you will be, my dear,' as she pointed to one. 'And what a Christmas turkey you will be. And do not be sad, because you will be used for meat.'"

"It is a very great honor. A very great honor indeed! Turkeys are especially honored in this way!"

Changes Price.

"When water becomes ice," asked the teacher, "what is the great change that takes place?"

"The greatest change, ma'am," said the little boy, "is the change in price."

IF Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache is a sign you have been eating too much meat, which forms uric acid

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region, it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spell, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scales and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Bitter consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts to take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act free. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and purify sluggish kidneys, and to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder troubles.

Jad Salts is a life-saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.
